Call to the Public

Ms. Wilcox introduced to Council and basically members of Sierra Vista to a concept that the members of the quilt Guild think will help raise visibility in the West End and increased tourism. She added that the Quilt Guild has been in existence since 1978 and they produce quilts for anybody that needs them. They are a nonprofit organization and provide quilts to the oncology centers, dialysis, foster care, WIC Program, and just about every organization in Cochise County to include people who have been burned out with a fire. She further stated that as the Quilt Guild watched the West End being discussed and what's going to go on, they thought about the concept of barn quilts. They started out on barns in the early 2000 with a woman that wanted to honor her mother with a particular quilt block design. Sierra Vista does not have too many bars around, so they are adapting a quilt block that can be made from a variety of materials and sizes. They hope to encourage the businesses and vacant walls to mount one of the quilts. A quilt trail can be a tremendous asset in Cochise County, and they plan starting small on the West End, and they will be meeting with business owners to promote this.
